HURRICANE WATCH

The Ultimate Hurricane Sandy Dining Guide to NYC

Luzzo's: Get your pizza pies here, tonight.

Joe: From the official Twitter account: "We are halfway there: gct, uws, ues and Columbia are open. The 4 downtown shops should be open soon-ish."

The John Dory Oyster Bar and the Breslin: Both of these restaurants in the Ace Hotel are open for diners-only. The JDOB is open from noon till 10 p.m., and the Breslin is open from 7 a.m. till midnight.

Nitehawk Cinema: The movie theater and the restaurant are now open.

Zengo and Pampano: These Richard Sandoval restaurants are now open, business as usual.

Crown: John DeLucie's swanky UES restaurant is OPEN.

Casellula: Get your cheese and wine here from 5 p.m. till 2 a.m.

Corner Bistro: The Long Island City location is open and offering delivery. Call 718-606-6500 to have a Bistro Burger brought to your door.

Arthur on Smith: Open for lunch today and tomorrow, brunch on the weekends, and dinner seven nights a week. One of the employees at the restaurant notes: "We will stay open on our regular schedule as long as we get product in the doors!"

Barrio 47: Dinner by candlelight tonight.

The Spotted Pig: Opened for drinks last night, and open again today for drinks, coffee, and whatever food the kitchen can prepare from now till 10 p.m. A rep notes: "They are still without power, but want to provide a neighborhood gathering spot for people to enjoy the company of others." As we know, Ken Friedman does not fuck around with hurricanes. Here's what the Spotted Pig looked like right before Hurricane Irene:
